

The Precipice

“The largest, highest space on top of any building on earth.”

Covering one acre, the Precipice revitalizes the unused roof of the U.S. Steel Power, Pittsburgh’s largest and tallest office building. Phenomenal views of the city can be experienced from the covered walkways whose shape emphasizes the architecturally recognized triangular shape with truncated corners.

The Precipice also showcases an 841 foot high restaurant/cafe and bar where visitors can simultaneously enjoy birds’ eye views of the surrounding downtown. A centered outdoor arena transitions throughout the seasons and houses activities such as spring botanical garden exhibits, winter ice skating, and interactive art galleries and concerts during the summer.
