

Polymer Skyline

Team 27

Electro-active shape memory polymer energy harvesting field. An electric current is produced as the polymer follicle is bent by the wind – energy is stored within the tube and distributed – to supplement building energy supply and to power the follicle as a light source.

